DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- (e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-11, 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Siebels (5,306,310).

Siebels teaches an intervertebral prosthesis which comprises a disc member dimension for insertion within an intervertebral space between adjacent vertebrae having a substantially solid exterior wall having opposed longitudinal ends for positioning adjacent respective upper and lower vertebrae; said wall defining a helical slit extending completely through the wall (interpretation of claim language in claim 1) between elements 13 and 14 or between themselves; the slit is continuous from a position adjacent the upper vertebrae to a position adjacent the lower vertebrae and being dimension to permit the exterior wall to elastically deform along the entire slit when subjection to a load, such as a tensile load or a from twisting.

See cap 18.

Regarding claims 13 and 16, the disc member is interpreted as being just element 13 or 14.

Claims 1-10 and 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Beer et al (5,458,642).

Beer et al teaches an intervertebral prosthesis which comprises a disc member (such as 13e only) dimension for insertion within an intervertebral space between adjacent vertebrae having a substantially solid exterior wall having opposed longitudinal ends for positioning adjacent respective upper and lower vertebrae; said wall defining a helical slit extending completely through the wall (interpretation of claim language in claim 1); the slit is continuous from a position adjacent the upper vertebrae to a position adjacent the lower vertebrae and being dimension to permit the exterior wall to elastically deform along the entire slit when subjection to a load, such as a tensile load or a from twisting.

Art Unit: 3738

See cap 11a, 11b.

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bagby (5,263,953).

Bagby teaches an intervertebral prosthesis which comprises a disc member dimensioned for insertion between adjacent vertebrae having a substantially solid exterior wall defining a helical slit extending completely through the wall subtending an angle greater than 360 degrees.

Claims 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rabbe et al (6,344,057).

Rabbe et al teaches an intervertebral prosthesis comprising a generally kidney shaped prosthetic disc member for insertion within an intervertebral space between adjacent vertebrae, the member having upper and lower support surface connected by a substantially solid exterior wall including a helical slit (threads).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 12 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
